22 March 2017 - 10am - 4pm The Awkward Bastards at Work

Day long creative workshops led by four diverse artists.

Rachel Gadsden www.rachelgadsden.com

Rachel is a British artist who is exhibited internationally and works across the mainstream and Disability Art sectors. Come prepared to let go and create extraordinary expressionistic emotional physical artworks.

Sue Austin www.wearefreewheeling.org.uk

Sue is an internationally acclaimed multimedia, performance and installation artist. Sue will give a hands on introduction to 360 degree immersive technology - smart device/phone essential.

Mohammed Ali www.aerosolarabic.com

Mohammed is an artist, educator and curator. He will guide participants in how to deliver public art projects that connect with the public in a meaningful way.

Rachael Savage www.vamostheatre.co.uk

Led by Vamos Artistic Director Rachael Savage, this workshop will focus on understanding non-verbal communication, physical theatre skills, devising scenes, and the techniques that make full mask performance effective.

23 March 2017 10.15am - 6pm The Return of the Awkward Bastards A Symposium

Panel One - Framing Diversity

A panel considering different contexts for the representation of underrepresented artists and practices. Do institutional frameworks for diverse practice perpetuate marginalisation and 'difference', in terms of artists, practices and audiences, or the opposite? What should institutional frameworks look like? What kind of freedoms, permissions and agency do artist-led or grass roots contexts offer that the institution cannot?

Keynote by Frances Morris, Director of Tate Modern

Panel Two - Pasts and Futures

A panel considering responsibilities to our pasts and our futures. How do we ensure that underrepresented artists and practices are represented in cultural histories? How do we rewrite and reclaim histories? How do we equally invest in the future? How do we support future generations of makers and cultural leaders in meaningful and instrumental ways?

Keynote by David A Bailey of the International Curators Forum.

Live Portrait Painting by Tanya Raabe-Webber, Portraits Untold.

Radical Practices

Radical short provocations by artists, activists and academics addressing a range of burning issues across the broad spectrum of diversity.

DASH's Awkward Bastards symposium in March 2015 was one of the first to engage with the spectrum of diversity from disability, ethnicity, sexuality, to gender and class. The Awkward Bastards return with ABsence in 2017 to consider the ways in which diverse artists and practices have been, are, or could be, framed and our collective responsibilities to our pasts and our futures.

Contributors to the symposium include:

Frances Morris (Tate Modern), Tony Heaton (Shape), Mohammed Ali (artist), Rachel Anderson (Idle Women), Julie McNamara (Vital Xposure), Daniel Oliver (artist), Jamila Johnson Small (artist/organiser), Simon Casson (Duckie), Lara Ratnaraja (consultant), Sue Austin (artist), Melanie Keen (Iniva), Nick Llewellyn & Cian Binchy (Access All Areas), Katherine Araniello & Aaron Willaimson (Disabled Avant Garde), David A Bailey (International Curators Forum), Aaron Wright (Fierce Festival), Tanya Raabe-Webber (artist), Helga Henry (Birmingham Hippodrome), Sarah Watson & Rory Baird (Creative Minds), Rachel Gadsden (artist), Caroline Parker (actor), Charlotte Gregory (Vamos) and sean burn (artist).
